In regards to the meeting only 12 of the 14 Big 10 schools were in attendance. Based on the conversation that took place it looks like Maryland and Rutgers do not have active or clearly defined retiree organizations. The major outlier in the 12 that did attend was Northwestern which appears to be a retired faculty based organization only. While officially it is described as an Emeriti Association the people from Northwestern indicated that almost all retired faculty are given the “Emeriti” title unless that have totally alienated the rest of the University community.

There are a couple of institutions that actually give direct funds to their retiree organizations and/or part time support staff, but most organizations are like us - pure volunteer groups. Some do raise funds by going out to get businesses sponsors. Of course that also involves allowing these sponsors access to the membership to sell their services or promote their products. Several institutions do not charge membership fees including Indiana, Michigan State, Northwestern and Purdue.

One topic that seemed to be of great concern was that a number of institutions do not provide any information regarding new retirees to their groups. Based on the discussion it appears to be related to either a lack of interest on the part of their HR groups or a general concern regarding the privacy of employment records. My reading on this is that it may have more to do with the interpretation of state privacy laws as it relates to changes in the employment status and/or how the retirees organizations are seen by the institution – i.e. whether the retiree groups are seen as part of the university or loosely affiliated private organizations.

The full comparative information gathered before and after the meeting are included as attachment to this report although not all institutions responded to the survey.

Presentations

The opening presentation was by Richard Alley Evan Pugh Professor of Geosciences at Penn State. It was an interesting presentation that revolved around the history of energy sources used to fuel developing and modern industrial economies and how we have changed from predominant energy sources previously when their use became unsustainable. He argued that there are other sources of renewable energy such as wind and solar that can and will eventually supplant fossil fuels. Government can help that process and thereby reduce the bad climate side effects, but the change to different energy sources is economically (if not environmentally) inevitable.

There was a presentation about what Penn State provides for retirees in terms of health care. They do offer a Medicare Advantage Plan (Part C) that they actually subsidize with state funds such that the premium is only $80 per month per person. That would be nice to have but I think it would be a non-starter in Nebraska. There was additional discussion in regards to state sponsored defined benefit plans versus defined contribution plans similar to our situation here.
The structural problem for retirees is clearest in states like Illinois that exempted their employees from Social Security coverage but now find it difficult to finance their retirement plans. While the private sector has moved predominately to the defined contribution model, this is difficult for these states to do since their retirees often do not qualify for significant Social Security benefits.

The speaker for the evening meal was Barry Lee Myers who is the Co-Founder and CEO of AccuWeather (based in State College, PA). In his presentation Mr. Myers talked about how he and his brother founded AccuWeather and how it has completely changed how weather information is generated and consumed worldwide. He also emphasized how his company recruits talent from all of our institutions.

On the final day we had a talk from Amy Lorek who is a faculty member at Penn State. She described an experimental class that she taught where she brought together undergraduate students and retired volunteers to encourage interaction and develop better generation understanding. She thought both groups gained a lot of insight and considered it very successful. She also referenced a TED talk that she thought would be of interest and can be found on YouTube and at: https://www.ted.com/talks/laura_carstensen_older_people_are_happier

Iowa

1. Membership: How many members does your Club/Association have? 683

2. Who is included in membership? Faculty, academic staff, support staff, e.g., trades, clerical, etc.? Retirees only, or also active employees? Faculty, staff, spouses of retirees, associate members (“friends” of UIRA)

3. Is your association for your campus only, or does it include all campuses? If all campuses, do any of the remote campuses have ‘local’ meetings? Our campus only

4. Funding: What is your dues structure? $10 for 1 year or $25 for 3 years

5. What support do you receive from your University (include both financial and in kind if possible)? None

6. Benefits: What are the benefits of membership to the members? Monthly programs (September-June, including speakers and tours of new facilities on campus), newsletter (September-June), annual University benefits session, annual flu vaccination clinic, photo contest, annual picnic, 2 special interest groups

7. What benefits does your Club/Association provide to your University? We have an endowed scholarship that grants $1,000 scholarships to students. Otherwise this is hard to say since we don’t have any official ties to any university office, although our programming keeps our members are kept in touch with the intellectual life of the campus.

8. Other: Is there a mandatory retirement age at your university? No

9. Is your retirement Club/Association represented on any University committees? Funded Retirement Insurance Committee

10. What other connections does your Club/Association have with your university? The annual Insurance Benefits session is presented in collaboration with the University Benefits Office; HR provides us with names and addresses of people who have retired (though not email addresses); the University of Iowa’s Levitt Center for University Advancement manages our endowed scholarship (funds, application process).

11. Does your association advocate for your university? How? No.

12. Do your members advocate for your university? How? No reliable information.

13. Do your members volunteer for your university? How are volunteer opportunities identified and publicized? Yes. University-related opportunities and also relevant community-related opportunities are publicized to our membership through the email list and the newsletter. We do not publicize general volunteer requests that are not specifically relevant to our demographic.

14. What single addition to or change in the relationship between the Club/Association and your University would have the greatest impact on you, the members (individually or collectively)? We are investigating the possibility of partnering with the Levitt Center for University Advancement for online management of our membership.
15. What single addition to or change in the relationship between the Club/Association and your University would have the greatest impact on the University? Forming a relationship (financial or otherwise) with a campus office or center, especially the Center for University Advancement’s reach in fund-raising for the university.

Michigan State

1. Membership: How many members does your Club/Association have? 4,700

2. Who is included in membership? Faculty, academic staff, support staff, e.g., trades, clerical, etc.? Retirees only, or also active employees? All retirees are automatically members along with their spouse or significant other.

3. Is your association for your campus only, or does it include all campuses? If all campuses, do any of the remote campuses have ‘local’ meetings? It is for all campuses. Historically, we meet at the main campus. Because it is centrally located and meeting space is available at no cost.

4. Funding: What is your dues structure? We have no dues. The association is funded through newsletter underwriter fees and donations.

5. What support do you receive from your University (include both financial and in kind if possible)? Office and meeting space, telephone service and copy machine use is provided by the university at no cost. The university through some of its departments provides funding as underwriters of the newsletter.

6. Benefits: What are the benefits of membership to the members? Newsletter (paper and electronic), eNotice email, web site of information and meetings with speakers on topics of interest.

7. What benefits does your Club/Association provide to your University? We provide volunteers for special events and activities. We work to keep a positive relationship between retirees and the university. Help communicate to retirees benefits and changes to benefits by working with MSU departments to compose these communications.

8. Other: Is there a mandatory retirement age at your university? No mandatory retirement age; exception is police officers, age 65.

9. Is your retirement Club/Association represented on any University committees? Not formally, but informally we do have relationships.

10. What other connections does your Club/Association have with your university? We have liaisons from Human Resources and Development/Advancement serve on our board.

11. Does your association advocate for your university? How? Yes. We promote positive relationships between retirees and the university. Part of this is keeping retirees connected and active. Many retirees advocate for the university by writing letters and email to legislative officials. Our 501(c) status does not allow us to take a more hands on active role.

12. Do your members advocate for your university? How? Write letters and emails on legislative topics that affect the university.
13. Do your members volunteer for your university? How are volunteer opportunities identified and publicized? Retirees volunteer on campus. Some are word of mouth, others are advertised on our web site and eNotices.

14. What single addition to or change in the relationship between the Club/Association and your University would have the greatest impact on you, the members (individually or collectively)? Working to connect retirees to part-time job opportunities on campus. This helps provide a reliable supply of workers for the university and some extra money for retirees.

15. What single addition to or change in the relationship between the Club/Association and your University would have the greatest impact on the University? Same as item #14 above.

Illinois

NOTE: The University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign State Universities Annuitants Association (SUAA) Chapter is one of over 50 chapters of the state SUAA organization. SUAA was established to advocate for the current employees, the retirees, their spouses and survivors who will receive or are receiving benefits from the State Universities Retirement System (SURS). There are chapters at each of the four-year and two-year state universities and colleges.

1. Membership: How many members does your Club/Association have?

About 1850 as of May 2018

2. Who is included in membership? Faculty, academic staff, support staff, e.g., trades, clerical, etc.? Retirees only, or also active employees?

All retirees and current employees as well as their spouses and survivors are eligible for membership.

3. Is your association for your campus only, or does it include all campuses? If all campuses, do any of the remote campuses have ‘local’ meetings?

The Urbana-Champaign campus only. The other two campuses in the University of Illinois system have their own Chapters in the state organization.

4. Funding: What is your dues structure?

The annual dues are $41 of which $8.00 is the Chapter dues.

5. What support do you receive from your University (include both financial and in kind if possible)?

In kind contributions: Coverage of mailing costs for the two annual Chapter newsletters; provision of a small office; assistance from a liaison; printing and mailing the newsletters.
6. Benefits: What are the benefits of membership to the members?

Receiving information about and providing advocacy for the pension system, networking with other UIUC retirees.

7. What benefits does your Club/Association provide to your University?

Continuing connections to the university.

8. Other: Is there a mandatory retirement age at your university?

No

9. Is your retirement Club/Association represented on any University committees?

Association President or designee is an ex officio member of the campus Senate Benefits Committee.

10. What other connections does your Club/Association have with your university?

There are no formal connections as an Association.

11. Does your association advocate for your university? How?

There is no formal advocacy as an Association. The state and campus Association’s advocacy for a strong pension system does this indirectly.

12. Do your members advocate for your university? How?

Many members do advocate for the university as individuals, often through existing connections with legislators.

13. Do your members volunteer for your university? How are volunteer opportunities identified and publicized?

There is no formal volunteer program within the Association. Our members volunteer individually in a number of ways such as mentoring students, facilitating study groups at the University’s Osher Lifelong Learning Institute; and taking responsibility for Master Gardener programs.
14. What single addition to or change in the relationship between the Club/Association and your University would have the greatest impact on you, the members (individually or collectively)?

n/a

15. What single addition to or change in the relationship between the Club/Association and your University would have the greatest impact on the University?

10. What other connections does your Club/Association have with your university? We are listed as an official affiliate and therefore can use the M logo on our sites and documents.

11. Does your association advocate for your university? We are in the process of structuring this function. How?

12. Do your members advocate for your university? In their everyday discussions, not in a formal process. How?

13. Do your members volunteer for your university? Yes. How are volunteer opportunities identified and publicized? We do not have a central process for this, however it is another item on our list to work on when we have a better web site to use.

14. What single addition to or change in the relationship between the Club/Association and your University would have the greatest impact on you, the members (individually or collectively)? We are working to be a closer partner to our University contact, Human Resources Office.
What single addition to or change in the relationship between the Club/Association and your University would have the greatest impact on the University? If we can develop a closer relationship to help with volunteer efforts, advocacy, and fund raising.
